Subject contents	The classes are part of the block concerning English-language literatures of the British Isles The course concentrates on selected poetry by Welsh writers against the background of Welsh history and with reference to older literature. It includes discussion of such issues as linguistic and cultural identity in this poetry; bilinguality or biculturalism in the work of Welsh poets; narrational-epic elements in this poetry and its relation to tradition, especially Celtic. The course aims to develop an ability to perceive both the unique values of particular literary texts and their place in relation to other texts and in their historical-cultural context.
