Subject contents	Listening, reading, writing, conversation: the emphasis is on topicality, materials are selected on an ongoing basis and allow you to follow hot topics and key debates. The main sources, also recommended for independent work, are the Internet edition of radio France Culture, especially the program "Répliques", the Internet version of the Le Monde daily (Le Monde.fr, débats tab) and the online ARTE television (Karambolages program). In this semester the form of written works is very diverse. Students read various press articles and imitate their style in written works of different type: reporting, investigation, interview, essay etc. The major part of the classes is devoted to creative writing workshops. Special attention is paid to the linguistic level of the texts (vocabulary, style, linguistic correctness on a C2 level). The thematic scope of the discussed phenomena and the developed vocabulary is wide and may change depending on the person conducting the subject. Additionally, specific linguistic and stylistic problems arising during the preparation of the final version of the master's thesis are solved.
Prerequisites and co-requisites	The condition for participation in classes is obtaining credit for the subject and exam French Language II.
