Subject contents	To acquaint students with the determinants of research and methods used by researchers dealing with various fields of art history and different periods in its history. The classes show how multifaceted the research of a work of art, its creator and viewer can be approached. They point out the limitations and obstacles that researchers face in their practice. They present theoretical assumptions of research, as well as practical solutions or proposals for solving specific research problems. The classes discuss, among other things, such issues as the ability to obtain information on a given topic, familiarity, cooperation of the art historian with representatives of other scientific disciplines (issues of identifying the matter of the work, its age, reaching layers invisible to the unaided eye), the importance of archival materials in the analysis and interpretation of the work, reconstruction of the artist's oeuvre and his creative path, the possibilities and limitations of stylistic analysis.
