Subject objectives	The general goal is to familiarize the student with the theoretical aspects of contemporary visual culture; while the specific goals are to provoke reflection on the contemporary iconosphere, sharpen the sense of its critical analysis, revise the procedures of its interpretation and deconstruct hegemonic visual discourses. The art historian's traditional competence as a professional observer will be enriched with alternative optics and non-canonical ways of seeing, while his eyes will be opened wide to the "other" areas of visibility.
