Subject objectives

The general aim is to familiarise the student with the theoretical aspects of contemporary visual culture; the specific aims: to provoke a reflection on the contemporary iconosphere, to sharpen the sense of its critical analysis, to revise the procedures of its interpretation and to deconstruct hegemonic visual discourses. The art historian's traditional competences as a professional observer will be enriched with alternative optics and non-canonical ways of seeing, while his or her eyes will be opened wide to the other areas of visuality.
