Example issues/ example questions/ tasks being completed	Basic assessment criteria: 1. Attendance and active participation in classes, especially presenting one's own experiences and related reflections, and participating in discussions about possible solutions applicable to the analyzed case. 2. Portfolio assessment criteria. The portfolio consists of: (A) a psychological and pedagogical section, and (B) a common section, treated as equivalent. The grade for the final exam is the average of the grades awarded by the instructors for the psychological and pedagogical courses. Part (A) should include a description of four practical situations at school, including two with dominant psychological aspects and two with dominant pedagogical aspects (in accordance with the scope of content indicated in the syllabus, but descriptions of challenging and rewarding situations are particularly important). Assessment criteria for part (A): (1) accuracy of the selection and precision of the description of the situation and its context; (2) identification of issues for in-depth analysis in class and the quality of reflections recorded during the internship. (3) Additional points can be earned for completing the reflections in part A of the portfolio after classes in the "Analysis of Experiences" course. In part (B), the student formulates their reflections on the following topics: (1) What did I learn about the school and the teacher during the internship? (2) What did I learn from students and teachers during the internship? (3) What did I learn about myself as a future teacher during the internship? (4) What knowledge and skills did I lack most during the internship? In light of this, what could be changed in teacher education? The assessment criteria for part (B) of the portfolio are the accuracy of the examples provided and their in-depth argumentation and interpretation.
