Subject objectives	The aim of the course is to familiarize students with the legal framework governing selected social policies including social security policy, social (welfare) care, healthcare policy, and family policy. The course will cover key concepts related to social policy, social (welfare) care, healthcare policy, health insurance, employment promotion, unemployment prevention, and labor market institutions. Students will also become acquainted with selected norms of family and guardianship law, both within current codifications and in extra-codified sources, as well as with relevant legal doctrine and case law. Moreover, the course aims to prepare students to apply the discussed legal regulations in practice and to develop appropriate social competencies.
