	[FGL3_U06] They can use German at level C1 of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages		Target Level B2 The student reaches the level of an independent language user in academic contexts. Learning outcomes: Understanding complex content — understands lectures, presentations, and general-interest articles. Fluent speaking — speaks fluently and spontaneously with developed argumentation. Interaction in discussion — responds appropriately, maintains conversation, and uses communication strategies. Basic academic writing — writes essays, summaries, and reviews. Cultural competence — analyzes cultural differences and their impact on communication.		[SU1] oral statement/conversation/discussion [SU2] presentation/project/paper/report [SU3] text preparation/written work [SU4] test/exam - oral or written [SU6] demonstration of practical skills [SU8] observation of student's independent or team work

Subject contents	Practical Grammar: The implementation of specific grammatical topics in Semester 3 should build upon the grammar content covered in the textbook during Semester 1. 3rd Semester (20 hours): 1. Articles and pronouns; 2. Declension of nouns; 3. Plural of nouns; 4. Gender of nouns (including nouns with multiple genders); 5. Case government of nouns; 6. Adjective and adverb declension of adjectives, comparison, and case government; 7. Numeral adjectives. Assuming that the above topics can be considered as review content (typically covered in the textbook in Semester 1), it is recommended to potentially start working on sentence structure and introduce certain sentence forms. Conversations: The selection of thematic areas designated for Semester 3 may be modified depending on the topics covered in Semester 1 as part of the textbook course. Recommended thematic areas to be covered in Semester 3: 1. Prejudices 2. Work and unemployment 3. City and countryside, living environment 4. Travel and tourism 5. Environmental protection Forms of work: short oral statements, dialogues, formulating personal opinions, guided discussions. Vocabulary + Writing: The expanded vocabulary range and the ability to correctly use it in various forms of written expression should relate to, among other things, the thematic areas indicated in the Conversations component. Types of written assignments to choose from in Semesters 1-6, depending on the course content and instructor's intentions: description, characterization, summary, commentary, narrative, composition, formal letter, motivational letter, review, report, essay, thesis.
Prerequisites and co-requisites	It is required to obtain a positive grade in the exams for each of the subjects included in the Practical German Language Course (PNJN) after the second semester. The language competencies achieved after the second semester, as outlined by the study program, are approximately at the B1+/B2 level.
